

The Impact of Globalization on Language Education

Morgan Wright

PhD

University of Amsterdam
Amsterdam, Netherlands

Kim Edwards

Dr.

Lund University
Lund, Sweden

Nico Green

Prof.

University of Oslo
Oslo, Norway

Abstract. This article explores the impact of globalization on language education, examining both opportunities and challenges. It analyzes how global interconnectedness influences language learning and teaching practices. The paper discusses the role of English as a global lingua franca and its implications for language diversity. By exploring case studies and theoretical perspectives, the article provides insights into the evolving landscape of language education in a globalized world.

Keywords: globalization, language education, lingua franca, language diversity, educational practices

Introduction

Globalization has significantly influenced language education, creating both opportunities and challenges. This article examines the impact of globalization on language learning and teaching practices, analyzing how global interconnectedness shapes language education. The role of English as a global lingua franca is discussed, highlighting its implications for language diversity and educational practices. By exploring various case studies and theoretical perspectives, the paper provides insights into the evolving landscape of language education in a globalized world. The article emphasizes the need for language education policies that balance the demands of globalization with the preservation of linguistic diversity, ensuring that learners are equipped to navigate an interconnected world.

This is a preliminary version. To read the full version of the article, please purchase a subscription.

References

1. Gojayeva, L. (2026). Teaching literature in modern education. ISRG Journal of Arts, Humanities and Social Sciences (ISRGJAHSS), 4(1), 288–291. <https://isrgpublishers.com/wp-content/uploads/2026/02/ISRGJAHSS1004062026.pdf>